The 15th of December will be a day to remember in La Paz. J. Jay, Juan, John, "Chihuahua" Ramos will begin his long awaited "Best Looking Legs" contest promptly (?) at 11:00 a.m. approximately or closely thereabout, maybe.

J. plans to have the contestants parade right down the malecón from the 16th of September (street name) to the Los Arcos Hotel. With only a buck being charged to enter and the proceeds going to charity, the number of contestants should be between seventy to one hundred! Before you guys start marking the date down on your calendars, there is something you should know. The contestants will all be guys too! That's right. The "Best Looking Legs" contests is an all male competition which may have the ladies looking for a reason to be downtown that day around 11:00 a.m. approximately maybe. The rules do allow for women to "assist" the male contestants and with a little concern for his definition of "assist" we asked J. just what the girls would be doing to "assist" the guys. With a twinkle in his eye his only reply was "what ever it takes to finish".

Anyone interested in participating should contact J. in his office which is the last booth on the right as you enter the Los Arcos coffee shop. His hours are from the time he rows in until the time he rows out.
